RESUME OF THOMAS C. BRUNEAU

Thomas C. Bruneau was born in Los Angeles, CA, on 15 July 1939. He graduated from California State University, San Jose, in 1962 with distinction and honors in Political Science. After one year in India on a Fulbright Fellowship, he entered the University of California at Berkeley and received his Ph.D. in Political Science in 1970.

He joined the Department of Political Science at McGill University, Montreal, in 1969 and left as a full professor in 1987. At McGill he chaired a number of departmental and university-wide committees and was Director of the Centre for Developing Area Studies between 1978 and 1983. Between July and December, 1983, he was Senior Program Associate in the Latin American Program at the Woodrow Wilson International Center for Scholars in Washington, DC.

Professor Bruneau joined the Department of National Security Affairs at the Naval Postgraduate School in July, 1987. He has served as the Western Hemisphere Area Coordinator, Associate Chairman for Administration, and the Department's representative to the Faculty Council. In July, 1989, he became Chairman of the Department.

Professor Bruneau teaches courses on all aspects of Latin American politics as well as the relations between the United States and Latin America. He has also offered courses on Iberian politics. His fellowships have included support from the Fulbright Commission, Rockefeller Foundation, Gulbenkian Foundation, Social Science Research Council, Social Sciences and Humanities Research Council of Canada, and Navy direct funding administered by the Naval Postgraduate School. His research has focused heavily on politics in Latin American, particularly Brazil and Paraguay, religion and politics, and politics in Portugal. He has written five books, three dozen articles or book chapters, and co-edited five additional books. He is currently conducting research on U.S. - Brazil defense relationships and the U.S. Navy and Portugal.
